

Abstract of the Disclosure

A modified extracellular domain of a cytokine receptor protein is capable of being crystallized without being complexed to a ligand molecule. The receptor preferably is a homo- or heterodimeric receptor having at least one molecule segment which contributes to a disordered structure deleted. A preferred receptor is human growth hormone receptor (hGHR).